

Ewya’s intention is to touch as many lives as possible and will be available on 1 June 2016, as a free digital magazine on numerous social media and digital platforms.

Ewya refers to the tree of life that is interconnected with every living being and aspect of our planet and the heavens. Just as the tree of life connects all forms of existence, so too does Ewya magazine. Before we were born, we were spirit, we were interconnected with each other and bound in the essence of universal love. When we were born on this earth, we became separated and disconnected. Many of us feel alone as if there is a part of your soul missing. The goal of Ewya is to connect like-minded people, to remind YOU who you truly are, through spiritual self-mastery and self-growth.

Editor Candice Wilson is a specialist life coach, cognitive behavioural therapist and psychic that holds 17 diploma’s in alternative health modalities and is studying her final year of BA in visual arts. She is an illustrator and author of numerous children’s books about angels. Her passion is to help people to master their greatness and help them to achieve it.
